Tour Description

Fireflies Watching

The mangrove swamps on the riverbank of Kuala Selangor are perfect homes to these amazing insects. Also called the "Lighting Bugs", fireflies actually belong to the beetle family Lampyridae. On the underside of their abdomens are special light organs called lanterns that glow in luminous flashes. The male fireflies use this light to attract their mates. When the female sees a male's light, she flashes a response. Flashing back and forth, male and female ensure that they are both of the same species before their mating ritual begins. It is this synchronization of the flashes, with their own distinct codes, that have amazed even the scientists.

Tour Features:

Bukit Melawati - a top Bukit Melawati, the highest point in the area is the site of the 200-year-old Fort Altingsburg built by the Dutch. This landscaped hill offers a panoramic view of the Selangor coast and the Klang Valley. Shaded by ancient rain trees are several fascinating historical attractions such as the Altingsburg Lighthouse, the Royal Mausoleum, the ruined Fort (Kota) Melawati, the legendary 100 steps, a fabled execution-block, children's playground and a quaint rest house.

Fireflies Watching at Kampung Kuantan - Just outside Kuala Selangor town is the quiet hamlet of Kampung Kuantan, one of the spots where fireflies displays can be witnessed and it is also one of the largest firefly colonies in the world. Enjoy a half an hour boat ride on the Sungai Selangor and let yourself be captivated by the twinkling yellow lights illuminating the trees as your sampan gently glides you down the river. Life jacket will be provided.

Seafood Dinner (pork free) - Enjoy a seafood dinner at a local restaurant, which is a unique experience of this tour.
